

Language Course

Combine your holidays with a language course abroad? Malta, England or South Africa are lovely destinations for an amazing stay during semester break.

In many cases, it is possible to take the earned credits into account for your study programme. For further information, please contact the examination board of your study programme.

Partially, universities also offer language courses during the semester breaks, but in this case self-initiative is required. Nevertheless, if you have any questions, please contact us.

In addition, the DAAD provides information and general notes about language courses abroad.

Prof. Dr. Anne Najderek, Vice Rector Teaching and Study as well as Quality Management & Director Language Centre

”

„Language skills are becoming increasingly important and make it possible to open up to another culture. Languages are generally a door-opener. During your studies you have various possibilities to learn languages in a pleasant and relaxed way. A language course abroad, however, provides an interesting advantage due to the direct contact with local people. You can apply your gained skills in daily life. Beside the aspect of practice, you have the possibility to meet people from various cultures and learn together in an international environment. Language trips connect people and open your eyes to the world.“